QUESTION: 9

At Halim's company, the "Bulletin Board" databases are used quite heavily. Employees use the databases to list items for sale, to post general notices, and to ask for feedback about various subjects. Halim has written an agent to update some settings on the databases on the BulletinBoard server. The agent runs and does not generate any errors, but the databases remain unchanged.

----- Code snippet -----

```
Set db = dir.GetFirstDatabase(NOTES_DATABASE) Do Until (db Is Nothing)

```
Set rep = db.ReplicationInfo
```

```
rep.Priority = DB_REPLICATION_PRIORITY_LOW
```

```
rep.CutOffDelete = True rep.CutOffInterval = 10
```

```
Set db = dir.GetNextDatabase
```

```
Loop
```

```
End Sub

What is the problem?

A. ReplicationInfo is a read-only property that includes information such as replication history. Halim needs to highlight a target database in the Notes client, and select File > Replication > Settings to make these changes.

B. The call to dir.GetNextDatabase does not include a (db) parameter. This is the same as passing a null argument, which results in the call fetching the first database in the directory again and again. The agent eventually times out, and so no changes are saved.

C. Halim did not include a folder parameter in the GetFirstDatabase call. If the top level data folder is empty, the agent skips the loop.

D. Halim must call the Save method after updating any properties of the NotesReplication class; otherwise, changes are lost.

Answer: D
