- A. by creating a list of files at a particular instant
- B. by creating a list of directories at a particular instant
- C. by creating a virtual copy of the data at a particular instant
- D. by creating a physical copy of the data at a particular instant

Answer: C

QUESTION: 2

Which three factors affect the backup solution's performance and should be considered in the configuration of the primary storage system? (Choose three.)

- A. the number of tape drives
- B. the transfer rate of the tape drive
- C. the transfer rate of the hard drives
- D. the number of spindles in the primary storage system
- E. the transfer rate of the controller attached to the hard drives

Answer: C, D, E

QUESTION: 3

A regional airline company supports three SANs in a heterogeneous environment. SAN hosts Human Resources (HR) and has three AlphaServers with Tru64 UNIX. The database for HR is in excess of 350 GB. Crew Scheduling is maintained by W2000 advanced server in a cluster and accesses over 2 TBs. The airline email system is on a clustered Windows 2000 advanced server on a SAN with 750 GB storage. Their Parts Inventory Management application is maintained on a Windows NT Server. The operation runs seven days a week and little time is available for backup. When considering the amount of time required to back up the HR, how would you configure the RAID sets for best performance when transferring the data to the EBS?

- A. 360 GB using 72 GB 10K rpm disk drives
- B. 360 GB using 36 GB 15K rpm disk drives
- C. 360 GB using 18 GB 15K rpm disk drives
- D. 360 GB using 36 GB 10K rpm disk drives

Answer: C

QUESTION: 4

A customer has a DLT tape drive attached directly to a server. The server has an internal array controller with a transfer rate of 10 MB/s. The customer stores legal documents on the internal hard drives, configured as a RAID 5 set. The customer notices that the DLT drive's throughput is about 3 MB/s during backup jobs. Data are not compressed. What should improve performance on the backup jobs?

- A. using an SDLT tape drive
- B. using a server with higher processor speeds
- C. using an EBS solution with an external storage subsystem
- D. using an array controller with a higher typical transfer rate

Answer: D

QUESTION: 5

The customer is using a Smart Array 4200 using four channels and is not getting the performance required to meet their backup window. It has been determined that the bottleneck in the backup data flow is the Smart Array controller. What type of primary storage controller provides a higher level of throughput?

- A. SA431
- B. SA5300
- C. HSG80 Secure Path
- D. HSG80 static load balancing

Answer: B

QUESTION: 6

Which factor has the least impact on the performance of the backup solution?

- A. the type of fault-tolerance in the backup server
- B. the type of fault-tolerance in the tape storage system
- C. the type and configuration of the tape storage system
- D. the type and configuration of the primary storage system

Answer: A

QUESTION: 7

How can the use of multiple volumes on primary storage help backup performance?

- A. by allowing simultaneous backup jobs
- B. by minimizing the use of the tape drives
- C. by minimizing the use of the backup server
- D. by allowing simultaneous use of the volumes by applications and the backup software

Answer: A

QUESTION: 8

One tape drive is directly attached to a backup server. Which tape drive is capable of providing the highest transfer rate?

- A. AIT 50
- B. DLT 20/40
- C. DLT 40/80
- D. SDLT 110/220

Answer: D

QUESTION: 9

A company just updated their primary storage to a Compaq RAID Array 8000 with twelve 36 GB hard drives. The array is configured for RAID 5. One server is using the array for a corporate database application. The company has determined their backup window to be 10 hours. What would the required transfer rate of the proposed backup solution be in order for the company to meet their backup window?

- A. 39.6 GB/hr
- B. 43.2 GB/hr
- C. 396 GB/hr
- D. 432 GB/hr
